The Pittſburgh Gazette.

Volume IX. SATURDAY, July 9, 1796. Number 514

WHEREAS a certain Robert Galloway, ſadler, of Waſhington county, advertiſed me in the Pittſburgh Gazette the twenty ninth of October laſt as having ran away from him as an apprentice, offered the generous reward of nine pence for apprehending me and bringing me home, but no charges. As my time was precious to one of his buſineſs he would give a reward equivalent for the loſs he was like to ſuſtain; but know, impartial reader, that ſaid Galloway had been down at Yorktown, and reported, that he had furniſhed his apprentices with arms and ammunition, and that they had been at the burning of Gen. Nevill's houſe, and if he had not made a precipitate retreat he would have been apprehended. On his return home he ſent me down to bring up ſome property he had neglected in his hurry, and I had got as far Getty's town, in York county, where I was apprehended, on his report, and taken to Chamberſburgh and there confined in jail, after ſome time I was admitted to bail, and when an examination took place I was honorably acquitted, and ſaid Galloway proved to be a liar. After my return home he gave me my indentures, and employed me as a journeyman for four months, at five pounds per month, to ſuperintend his buſineſs, during which time he went to Kentucky; when he came back, being vexed at paying ſo much money, he reported that I had ſtolen ſome of his money in the month of November, at which time, I have made it appear before William Boyd, Eſq. that I was not on the weſt ſide of the Allegheny mountain. He then ſued me for the clothes he was to give me during my apprenticeſhip, I alſo caſt him in this action—he then ſwore before ſquire Boyd, the ſecond time, that I had ſtole his money and that it was done in December; I alſo proved that falſe—I threatened to proſecute him, he then produced a depoſition of a minor boy, taken before a magiſtrate in Waſhington county. Squire Boyd then aſked him how he knew I had taken the money, he replied, that the boy had told him ſo, and took up the boy's depoſition, and ſwore to the contents of it, (amazing it is to think that a man would ſwear to a boy's depoſition without a certainty) and then apprehending his danger, and being warned by ſome of his friends that James Paul, Eſq. ſheriff of Fayette county, was waiting to take him, he took a quick departure, giving Ohio Bail to all his creditors, and like all evil diſpoſed perſons with haſty ſtrides flying from juſtice for fear of being detected in their villainy.

ADVANTAGEOUSLY ſituate upon the navigable waters of Allegheny river and French creek, affording an intereſting variety of arable and meadow grounds, and capable of eaſy improvement and cultivation are now offered for ſale and ſettlement. All the advantages of ſoil, climate and ſituation are here combined in a moſt extraordinary manner. The lands are rich, fertile and finely watered. The air, like all the country beyond the Allegheny mountains, is mild, pure and healthy, and the rivers open a communication with all parts of the continent. No tract of country within the United States is more materially benefitted by the commercial advantages ariſing from the free navigation of the northern lakes and ſouthern waters. A large proportion of the wealth and merchandize of enterpriſing adventurers from the eaſtern and Atlantic ſtates will, from motives of intereſt and convenience, in a very few years paſs through this delightful country to all the weſtern world. This, added to the natural productions, will ſupply the inhabitants at a very reaſonable price with every thing neceſſary for their health and happineſs. To thoſe who are determined to ſettle in the country, and wiſh to make purchaſes, a liberal credit will be given upon eaſy and advantageous terms.—To thoſe who are deſirous of holding under improving leaſes, generous ſupplies of proviſions and farming utenſils, or gratuitous grants of lands and privileges will be given; and good wages and beneficial offers are made to ſober, honeſt, and induſtrious mechanics and labourers. A rich and thriving ſettlement, affording many accommodations and advantages, and conſiſting of above thirty families, is fixed in the centre of this country, upon the property of David Mead, eſquire, where all the neceſſaries and many of the conveniences for living may be procured at a reaſonable price. A great plenty of graſs and hay can be eaſily procured with no other expence than cutting and curing upon the large and extenſive meadows bordering upon French creek. LONDON, APRIL 27.

THERE are letters in town from Spain, which ſtate, that a correſpondence of a moſt ſerious and important nature has taken place between the courts of London and Madrid. Their inferences lead to this fearful reſult, that with reſpect to Spain, inſtead of "a friend the leſs," we ſhall ſhortly have "an enemy more."

Mr. Alexander Lameth, of revolutionary memory, received an order from the Duke of Portland, on Tueſday night, to quit the kingdom. His remonſtrances on this occaſion received this brief anſwer—"You keep too much company, Mr. Lameth." If we miſtake not he had letters to the friend of Briſſot, and ſome other admirers of the French revolution.

A letter from Hanover, dated April 20, ſays, "His highneſs the Duke of Brunſwick is gone to Magdenburgh, where he will meet Count Hangwitz, the Pruſſian miniſter of ſtate. The Magdenburgh regiments will ſoon be in motion. It is alſo ſaid, that beſides the Pruſſians, 15000 Hanoverians, 5000 Brunſwickers, and 5000 Heſſians will take the field for the defence of the line of neutrality. The whole force deſtined for this purpoſe will amount to 60,000 men, and be commanded by the Duke of Brunſwick.

We this morning received the Paris Journals to the 25 inſt. incluſive. They bring the important intelligence of the recommencemnt of hoſtilities in Italy. Two Battles have been fought between the French and the United Auſtrian & Sardinien Armies, both of which we are ſorry to ſay, terminated in the defeat of the latter. By the meſſage of the Executive Directory to the Council of five Hundred it appears, that the latter Victory, that of Monte-Lezino, was very deciſive, the Auſtrains and Sardinians loſing 10,500 men, with 40 pieces of cannon, Ammunition Waggons, Colours, &c. &c.

The Executive Directory have, at length ſent an addreſs to the Armies, in which they tell them that the time is come for the renewal of hoſtilities; and, in a ſtile of bombaſt well ſuited to their exorbitant pretenſions, proclaim their determination to force their enemies to accept the ignominious terms of peace which they have propoſed, and which they have the modeſty to denominate the moſt juſt and moderate.

PARIS, April 25.

THE GENERAL in CHIEF of the ARMY in ITALY to the EXECUTIVE DIRECTORY.

"Head Quarters at Carcare, 25th Germinal.

"The Campaign in Italy has commenced. I have to give you an account of the battle of Montenotte.

"After three days movement to deceive us, General BEAULIEU attacked, with a diviſion of ten thouſand men, the right of the army ſupported by VOLTRY.

"The General CERVONI, who commanded there, having under his the 70th & 99th half brigades, ſuſtained the fire with the intrepidity which charracterizes the ſoldiers of liberty. I was not deceived with reſpect to the true intentions of the enemy. The inſtant I was informed of the circumſtances of the attack on the right, I ordered General CERVONI to wait the night and to fall back, by a forced march, and concealing his movement from the enemy, upon my centre, which was ſupported by the heights of Madona de Savona.

"On the 24th, at four in the morning, BEAULIEU in perſon, with 15,000 men, attacked and beat in all the poſitions by which the centre of the army had been ſuported; at an hour after mid-day he attacked the redoubt of Monte Lezino, which was behind the entrenchment. The enemy returned ſeveral times to the charge, but this redoubt guarded by 1500 men, was rendered impenetrable by the courage of thoſe who defended it. The chief of the brigade RAMPON, who commanded there, by one of thoſe ſtrokes which characteriſe a ſoul great and formed for brilliant actions, made his troops, in the midſt of the fire, take an oath to die to a man in the redoubt.

"The enemy paſſed the night within piſtol ſhot.

"During the night, General LAHARPE, with all the troops of the right, took poſt behind the redoubt of Monte Lezino. At an hour after midnight, I departed with the Generals Berthier and Meſſena, the commiſſioner Salicetti, and a part of the troops of the centre and the left. We moved by Altare, upon the flank and the rear of the enemy.

"On the 22d at break of day, Beaulieu who had received a reinforcement, and Laharpe, attacked and fought with vigour and different ſucceſs, when General Maſſena appeared, ſowing death and terror on the flank and rear of the enemy, where M. Argenteau commanded: the route of the enemy was complete; two of their Generals, Roccavini and Argenteau, were badly wounded. The loſs of the enemy was between three and four thouſand men, of whom more than two thouſand five hundred were made priſoners; a Colonel, and eight or ten ſuperior officers, and ſeveral colours were taken.

"When I ſhall have received all the reports, and ſhall be leſs engaged, I will ſend you a detailed account, which may make known to you thoſe to whom their country owes a particular acknowledgment.

"Generals, Officers and Soldiers, all ſupported, in this memorable affair, the glory of the French name.

(Signed) "BUONAPARTE."

The ſucceſs of our army in Italy has not ſtopped here. In the ſitting of the Council of Five Hundred of yeſterday, the following meſſage was read by the Preſident from the Executive Directory.

"Citizen Repreſentatives, the fortunate battle of Montenotte, which we informed you of by our meſſage of the 2d of this month, was only, for the invincible army of Italy, a prelude to ſucceſſes ſtill more brilliant—We have to day to announce to you a victory, deciſive and moſt memorable, gained by that army at Monte Lezino over the United Piedmonteſe and Auſtrian armies.

"The enemy loſt ten thouſand five hundred men, of whom eight thouſand were made priſoners. They loſt likewiſe forty pieces of cannon, with horſes, mules and ammunition waggons, fifteen ſtand of colours, all their equipage, and ſeveral magazines.

"Our troops, generals, officers, ſoldiers all are covered with glory, and have ſhewn themſelves worthy to defend the name of liberty.

"The General in Chief, BUONPARTE, again directed this attack. The other Generals who ſeconded him in the moſt diſtinguiſhed manner, are Laharpe, Angereau, Meſſena, Cervoni, Coſſe, Menarde and Goubert. This laſt was wounded in leaping into the entrenchments of the enemy. Two Generals were killed at the head of their columns performing prodigies of valour."

"The General Provera, who commanded the Auſtro-Sardinian army, was made priſoner, after having evinced the moſt gallant reſiſtance, with ſome regiments which were taken with him.

"You will declare without doubt, that the army of Italy has not ceaſed to deſerve well of its country."

This declaration was made upon the inſtant by acclamation; and the Council reſolved, that in two hours it ſhould again read the meſſage of the Directory, which ſhould be printed, poſted up, and ſent to all the adminiſtrations and the armies.

St. JOHN'S May 24.

Extract of a letter from St. Pierre's, Martinique, dated the 21ſt inſt.

"The Engliſh batteries were opened on Monday laſt the 16th inſt. at St. Lucia—their firſt fire was very ſucceſsful in ſilencing the Vigie, and ſeveral batteries, the latter of which have been evacuated by the republicans, who have retired into Morne Fortune, one of the magazines in the Morne has been blown up by the falling of a ſhell.

"On the night of the 16th the town of Caſtries was entirely deſtroyed by fire, as well as a very great part of the ſhipping lying in the road—it is added, that at Caſtries, 7 or 800 perſons, men, women, children, and old men, were put to the ſword by the Britiſh—it is pretended that it was owing to the Heulans & ſome other troops entering the town and finding two ſailors and a Heulan nailed on croſſes—one of thoſe unhappy men was ſtill breathing—at this cruel ſight the troops were ſeiſed with ſuch fury, that it was impoſſible to check their reſentment.

"The ſame night a ſortie was made on the Grenadier Lahathe, & La Vigie French batteries, the firſt was diſmantled without oppoſition; thirty ſeven ſoldiers and a ſerjeant had already reached the ſecond battery, when the Colonel who commanded the expedition being wounded, ordered a retreat to be beat; the troops, after a little heſitation whether they ſhould advance or retreat, were at laſt obliged to obey; this retreat has proved unfortunate for us; the republicans having notice of it hurried to the cannon of the Vigie, fired on a column of the Britiſh troops with caſe ſhot, and killed 200 men on the ſpot [illegible] an inhabitant of St. Lucia, has [illegible] ſeverely wounded.

"The fire of our batteries is always very well kept up; we are approaching Morne Fortune, and cloſing the line.—We expect the Morne will ſhortly be reducted.

"The Republicans in the Morne ſent 100 negro women under the eſcort of a detachment of negroes, in order to take off ſome proviſions from a plantation ſituated a few hundred paces from the Fort; a detachment of Malcolm's rangers were ordered to oppoſe this ſally, which they did, and deſtroyed the whole detachment, except, as it is ſaid, four negro women: Some of our men were killed in this engagement.

DREADFUL CONFLAGRATION!

Yeſterday arrived here the ſhip Providence, Capt. Felt, 7 days from Charleſton (S. By an operation of this kind, a young man was blown at leaſt twelve feet high: he luckily received no material injury.

An immenſe property muſt have been deſtroyed; but the gentleman who furniſhes the above, is not able to conjecture the amount, or who were the principal ſufferers by this deſtructive element.

N. York Gaz.

Pittsburgh, July 9.

Mr. SCULL,

I HAVE been a ſilent, and an attentive ſpectator of the conteſt, reſpecting the Britiſh treaty; and it is my opinion, that much good ſenſe, integrity, patriotiſm ill-nature, and party ſpirit, appeared, in the Congreſs of the United States, on both ſides of the queſtion. But with reſpect to the extent, and limitation of the treaty-making power, veſted in the Executive, which appears to have been the queſtion, which operated on all the controverſy, I cannot preciſely determine; for the conſtitution will undoubtedly bear the conſtruction which it received, from both the friends, and the enemies of the Britiſh treaty; hence it requires amendments, in order to be more explicit on that point; but what thoſe amendments ought to be, is a queſtion of more doubtful ſolution, and I confeſs my political knowledge, is not adequate to the deciſion. However, as the conſtitution of the United States is in many things a conſtitution of experiments, it is perhaps beſt to let it remain as it is, without any alteration, until time, and experiences afford the neceſſary comment and we will then be able to diſcover whether the power of the executive, with reſpect to treaties, ought to be extended or abridged.

I agree with Gallatin and Findley, our immediate repreſentatives in Congreſs, in finding many faults in the Britiſh treaty; but I believe it is as good a one, as could be obtained, and much better, than any alternative in our power: Therefore, under the imperious government of exiſting circumſtances, I would have voted for the appropriation to carry the treaty into effect; although I did not ſign any of the petitions ſent down from this country, in favour of ſaid treaty, becauſe it was my opinion, that it was the duty of the inhabitants of the weſtern country, to make little noiſe about the affairs of government, on the preſent occaſion. At the ſame time, I am well pleaſed with the conduct of the above gentlemen, becauſe I believe that they had the welfare of their country at heart, and under the governing influence of that principle, acted with candour, and firmneſs, at the riſk of loſing their ſeats in Congreſs.

It is worthy of obſervation, that while the fate of the Britiſh treaty was depending in Congreſs, Findley ſtepped out of the houſe, to make ſome arrangements reſpecting a trunk, which he was about to ſend home to his family, and although he returned in a ſhort time, the queſtion was taken during his abſence. His enemies ſeized the opportunity with avidity, and the trunk has been blown up into an electioneering bubble, as large as a mountain; but in the preſence of any unprejudiced perſon, this mountain will evaporate in ſmoke, and there only will remain a trifling indiſcretion of which Findley certainly was guilty; for he ought not to have run any riſk of being abſent, when he did not know the moment when a queſtion which had ſo highly agitated the public mind would be decided. But when I conſider, that he behaved in the houſe with candour, and firmneſs, both before and after the taking of the queſtion, and alſo that during his long political career, his enemies can find nothing [illegible] againſt him, than the trifling affair of [illegible] trunk, my mind is perfectly eaſy [illegible] ſubject, and I cannot think, that any perſon does believe, that he left the houſe under the influence of any baſe motive.

It may be ſaid, that I am a friend to Findley. To this I anſwer, that I am none of his relation, nor religious connections. I never received any favour from him, and I am entirely independent of him, in every point of view. Moreover, I have watched his political conduct, for many years, with all the jealouſy of a man, to whom his rights are dear, and who has determined to repoſe confidence in no man implicitly, whether his political creed embraces ariſtocracy, or democracy; and the reſult is, that whatever Findley's faults, or foibles may be, yet, while he chooſes to ſerve his country, and continues to diſcharge his duty to his conſtituents with as much honeſty and firmneſs as he has done hitherto, he ſhall have my vote for any office, or ſeat in the gift of the people, that I think him qualified to fill with dignity, and to advantage.

GO. WASHINGTON, Preſident of the United States.

Depoſited among the Rolls, in the Office of the Department of State.

TIMOTHY PICKERING, Secretary of State.

Extract of a letter from the Eaſtward.

"Your people no doubt will be highly entertained and inſtructed by Mr. Findley's hiſtory of the Inſurrection. They will learn many things relating to themſelves and their country which they never knew or ſuſpected till now; ſuch as, that the Inſurrection was raiſed by Mr. Hamilton and the Executive—That Mr. Findley knew all the thoughts, deſigns, pretences, and private proceedings of the Mingo creek aſſociation, though he had never been in that part of the country, nor correſponded with any of the inhabitants, which affords [illegible] ſtrong preſumption that he knew them [illegible] revelation, though he does not ſay ſo, becauſe Thomas Paine has convinced all [illegible] Sans Culottes republicans that a revelation is impoſſible—They will likewiſe learn that the main object of the expedition was [illegible] to ſuppreſs the inſurrection or to [illegible] obedience to the laws, but ſolely to [illegible] vent the election of Mr. Findley and [illegible] Gallatin, in which, however, Mr. Ham[illegible] ton was not able to ſucceed.—The [illegible] army will learn that they were not [illegible] in the ſervice of the United States, but [illegible] aſſaſſins hired by Mr. Hamilton to [illegible] Findley and Mr. Gallatin wherever [illegible] met them, whom, however, they [illegible] not touch.—General White will learn [illegible] high an eſteem Mr. Findley has for [illegible] and if he has a cane will give him [illegible] king marks of his gratitude.—General will learn, that he was not the author his own addreſs, but received it cut and from Mr. Hamilton, and Mr. Hamilton mſelf will learn, that he is a much greater n than he ever thought himſelf, though no means equal to Mr. Findley and Mr. llatin. But what is chiefly intended, the ople of the weſtern country will learn, at unleſs they continue to elect Mr. dley and Mr. Gallatin for their Repreſentatives in Congreſs, their liberties are an end, and that they will either be ſold the Engliſh in virtue of ſome private article in the treaty, or ſubjected to exciſes miniſterial influence without the power relieving themſelves except by inſurrection, d in reſpect of this [illegible] ry I ſuppoſe that it will be ſucceſsful, as our people muſt know by experience that body can ſtop the march of an army ſo ctually as Mr. Findley, and that nody can ruin a treaty or ſtop the wheels government ſo eaſily as Mr. Gallatin.— is probable that Peter Porcupine will ke ſome notice of this hiſtory, and ſet e merits and importance of the author in proper light."

Whereas I gave my bond for three hundred dollars, payable on the firſt day of October next, to Jeremiah Sergent, of Harriſon county and ſtate of Virginia, in caſe he, the ſaid Sergent, did on that day make me a good and ſufficient warrantee deed for a certain tract of land lying in ſaid county, and bounded on the Little Kenhawa, but am now fully perſuaded that it is out of his power to fulfil his contract. I therefore forwarn all perſons from taking an aſſignment on ſaid bond as I am determined not to pay it unleſs compelled by law.
